Q1

What makes the Qur'an unique?

Answer

The Qur'an tells us about the origin of our creation, the purpose of our creation, the destination we are all travelling to. We are left nowhere unguided.

For example:

- i It is a Book of salvation.
- ii It is a Book that takes you from being a slave to others, a slave to the monetary system, a slave to life and to what people have in their hands, to being a slave of the Creator.
- iii Allah tells us in the Qur'an the purpose of our creation saying, "Verily, I have only created the Jinn and Ins (humankind) that they may worship Me."
- iv We are told in the Qur'an that Allah created us from clay, mud, or soil.

v And we know what will happen to us, after few years. Every soul shall taste death.

vi In the Qur'an, you will find the comfort of your soul, the guidance to your spirit, the means of success, because Allah (swt) is putting all of this in His Glorious Qur'an.

Q2

What makes one qualified to speak about the meaning of the Qur'an?

Answer

There are a number of factors that make one qualified to speak about the meaning of the Qur'an:

i

You must be fluent in Arabic. Otherwise, if you do not know Arabic, then you have to rely on those who translate the meanings of the Qur'an, because it cannot be translated itself. It is so miraculous that translating it is impossible.

- ii You must be knowledgeable of Islam as a religion, in the Shariah, and in Aqeedah.
- iii You must know the commentary, the Tafseer of scholars starting with that of the Companions.

Q3

The Prophets were given tangible miracles such as the staff of Moses (pbuh) and the healing of Jesus (pbuh), what was Muhammad (pbuh) given of this sort?

Answer

The miracles given to the Prophets before were material and time bound. Now there is no longer any trace of them and therefore cannot be proven except through the Qur'an, whereas the Qur'an is a living miracle that remains living until the Day of Resurrection. Besides being itself a miracle that challenges time, it is full of miracles.
